GREEN BELT TRAINING PROGRAMME

Lean Practitioner Green Belt Certification

Develop your people and deliver business results!

This unique programme provides indepth classroom training with coaching support to grow your people and improve productivity.

Why this programme works:

Most Lean Six Sigma training is heavy on the maths and light on the “how-to”. We’ve fixed that. This is a pure Lean practitioner course focused on the A3 framework and real-world problem solving. After completion of classroom training we go straight to coaching support to deliver your improvement project. No exams, no complex statistics—just the practical skills you need to lead change.

What you’ll get out of it:

Massive ROI: A successful Green Belt project often returns twenty times the cost of the training.

Visible Results: You won’t just learn theory; you’ll implement a tangible improvement project in your own business.

A New Mindset: You’ll move from firefighting to a systematic way of thinking that eliminates waste and improves flow.

“The Lean Practitioner Greenbelt programme really strengthened our CI Champions by giving them the structures and skills they need to apply root cause analysis across our sites. It’s given me the confidence that they can successfully deploy these tools in the field.”

Operational Excellence Director,
Services Division,
Sulzer Services UK & Nordics

“Investing in the Lean Practitioner Green Belt delivered double-digit savings for our business. However, the real value lay in the practical involvement; it not only developed our team’s knowledge and skills but, more importantly, built the confidence they needed to lead change.”

Operations & HR Director,
Unbound Group

Why Not Six Sigma?

We get asked this a lot, so we'll be straight with you. Traditional Lean Six Sigma courses are often stuffed with complex statistical tools and heavy maths. For many people its just a barrier to getting started.

We've made a deliberate choice to leave the complicated stats out. It isn't a limitation; it's a strategy. By removing that burden, we can focus on turning you into a systematic, practical problem-solver.

Most importantly, we don't believe in the pressure of a "pass or fail" test day. There are no exams. We're interested in your ability to lead real change, You'll earn your certification by delivering a real project that makes your business better. It's about practical application, not a certificate on a wall.
